

Albert
It's really been a fabulous year and you must admit it's been eventful we got to get together next year on B and have a party. Hope to see you this summer in Johnson City when I come to see Miller and of course have a fabulous story to share. Lots of love,
Do, and please write.

Foreword

IT is our sincere hope that the 1959 Quair will show to its readers some of the true spirit of St. Catherine's School. In choosing our theme, we realized the importance of the Time spent within these walls. We feel that this Time has matured us, not only in mind, but also in heart. St. Catherine's has shown us that the highest maturity is the forgetting of self through service to others. Our school prayer echoes this thought: "... what we keep, we lose. Only what we give remains our own."

1959 QUAIR

BY THE SENIOR CLASS

ST. CATHERINE'S SCHOOL

RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

CUM AMORE

Mary Allen McCue

CERTAINLY the most renowned of the graduates of 1959 is Mary Allen McCue. She holds the distinction of being a "St. Catherine's girl" for thirty-two years. Till the end of time we will remember her unfailing interest and sympathy, her unsparing giving of herself to help us in all our problems and endeavors, and her ability to make us see the bright and hopeful side of the future. "Women rule the world" has always been her motto, but we at St. Catherine's know the world would be much better if there were more women like her in it.

With love and regret we say to her "Au revoir" and "Bon voyage," hoping that in the future, too, all her endeavors will be crowned with the success which she so richly deserves.

DEDICATION

Evelyn Davidson Ward

TO speak of Mrs. Ward is first to speak of a fine friend—then a fine teacher. Her students of “child’s play” math know of her ability to teach math problems; all students know of her ability to understand personal problems. Her winning smile and her way of scoffing at difficulties will always be among our happiest recollections.

Thus, in humble appreciation for all she has done for us and for St. Catherine’s, we, the Senior Class of 1959, dedicate the Quair to our friend, Mrs. Evelyn Ward.

MISS SUSANNA P. TURNER, Headmistress

Miss Turner's Address to the Senior Class

*I*T is an odd fact that in schools the young, who are apt to fear age and mortality, often count away their youthful months and days in anticipation of vacations, drivers' licenses, dances, graduation, college, and freedom from restraints imposed by their elders. Perhaps this is one reason your editors have chosen "Time" as a theme. At any rate, a reckoning with time is always in order.

Both young and old really know that longevity is no measure of quality. The stars are beautiful for all time to those who see a miracle in the night skies; a tearful little girl's smile is gone in an instant, but is infinitely precious to those who love children. Which is more beautiful? None can say.

Similarly, though our lives are measured by time, the meaning of our lives has nothing to do with their length. In spite of inevitable birthdays, the more significant human developments are not governed by time. Babyhood did not end at a predictable date but when you stopped being babyish. Childhood does not cease because your years are numbered in two digits but because you "put away childish things." Adulthood does not come when you leave your teens but when you have met and handled in a responsible fashion the duties, problems, and privileges of an adult. The genuine issues of living may be met by one in a few years and bypassed by another through the whole course of a long life.

Human beings receive time separated into days and seasons. We have evolved additional scientific divisions—minutes, hours, weeks, months, years—but all become wholly inconsequential if we accept the fact that God, who dwells in infinity, came to his creatures, who dwell in time, and showed us that man was born to share eternity. Such a vision can be a tragic threat to any who might spend eternity counting artificial portions of time in anticipation of pleasure yet to come, but a glowing promise to those who have caught a glimpse of their Creator's "loving purposes." Even the restless young sometimes spend a moment contemplating eternal destiny; even those who so busily count the days pause occasionally to wonder whether their waiting is for the "good cheer" that may endure forever. When these ever-recurring questions come to you, we hope you will find, stored deep in the recesses of your mind, some glimmer of light, some knowledge of truth, some experience of love that will enhance all time and render you courageously grateful for the awesome possibilities of eternity.

The Senior Class

THE SENIORS,

Informally . . .

WENDY ABBOTT: From South America comes Wendy, whom we pictured swaying gently to the cannibal's tune, shrinking heads as a summer pastime, and gulping the medicine man's strong potion for making friends in that new country—North America. What a surprise we had! Instead, we find a Wendy, previously Americanized, kind, willing, and much more adapted for making friends than any medicine man's potion. One who socializes easily yet studies with no less interest, one who listens to others eagerly but says little about herself, Wendy is a special part of St. Catherine's. We will miss her sympathetic heart and cheerful ways next year.

SUSAN ALEXANDER: Although she hates to be considered "athletic," George must be commended for her skill in that department, and for her leadership as president of the Athletic Association and captain of the basketball team. However, her talents aren't confined to that field. George is a poet! And for practical joking, there is no one to equal her, or even come close. Humor indeed runs high in this West Virginian. At St. Cat's, she doesn't know whom they're talking about when they say "Susan," but at home—"Who's George?" is the question. Although she seems eager to leave, we are all sorry to bid "George" good-bye.

CHASIE ALLEN: When Chasie first came to St. Catherine's in the ninth grade, she was fun-loving, easygoing, and not very fond of working. Except for getting a little taller and cutting her hair, she hasn't changed a bit. Whether it is a banana cream pie fight or a conference on what to wear at Carolina, Chasie is right there in the middle. And you can be sure that she'll throw the most pie and that her clothes are sure to be exactly right. It is these qualities, plus friendliness and consideration, that won her so many friends here, and insure her popularity wherever she goes.

LYNN ANDERSON: Lynn's nickname "Bear" originated somewhere back yonder in the peaceful hills of North Carolina. Perhaps the rather bear-like way she has of steadily getting things done with a minimum of fuss, bother, and excess effort may have had something to do with it. Or it could be because she was a great Winnie-the-Pooh fan in her younger days. At any rate, the nickname fails to indicate Lynn's intelligence, her marvellous sense of humor, and her ever-active wit. All of these add up to more success, both here and everywhere, than most bears will ever have.

SARAH ANDERSON: Girls are gathered around; all ears are attentive; all sides are aching with laughter. Who could possibly be in the center of the group but Sarah? We are lucky that her dramatic skill follows her off the stage, to beguile our days with hilarious story-telling. Yet "Dusty" is not without a serious side. She has been entrusted with leadership in the Student Council, and has carried out her job extremely well. Her good scholastic standing, friendly disposition, and love for New England assure her of a wonderful time when she journeys northward to college.

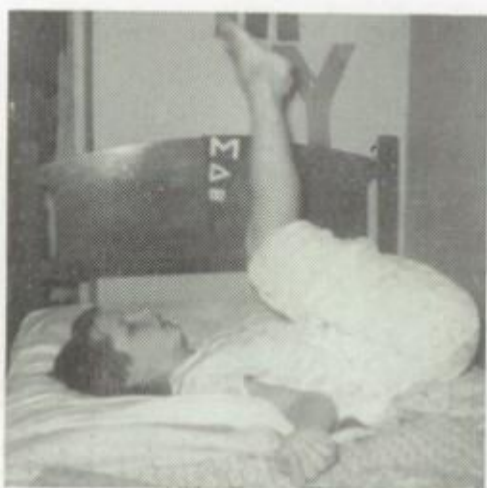

ANN ASHTON: Ann has the enviable ability to stay cool and calm in the midst of any crisis. This talent has helped her do with great success the alternately boring and frantic job of playing goalie on the hockey squad. She may sigh wistfully for the good old days when she played on the forward line, but the same steady conscientiousness that characterizes her in everything she does keeps her patiently and uncomplainingly at her goalie post. Her artistic ability keeps Ann in steady demand for League posters and Inklings illustrations. And her friendliness makes her liked by all.

BETSEY BEALE: We refuse to say anything about Betsey's perfect modeling figure because it hurts us plump ones too much to be reminded of it. Betsey's interests vary—mostly the male-type way. Is she a St. Cat's girl or not? Newspaper woman superb, she gives a glimpse of real school life to her readers. Much of her time is spent traveling between Richmond and her charming, historical Charles City home. We know Betsey will have success wherever she chooses to go to college.

ORA LEE BLANTON: To have high principles is a fine quality, but Ora Lee goes the one important step farther: she stands up for those principles. She has managed to avoid the "I've got to be sophisticated" stage. We wish we knew how to acquire her type of maturity which keeps her responsible in matters of importance (of course, Our Hearts Were Young and Gay was most important) and yet gives the ability to giggle with the rest of the girls. We wish Ora Lee the best of luck at William Smith and throughout her life.

ANN BOOKER: "Annie B." joined our corps only four years ago—a comparatively short "hitch" for a day student. During those years, she has made herself an integral part of her class. We appreciate her willingness to do the obscure, disagreeable jobs that have to be done, and we praise her for the often unpraised work of marshaling a bunch of giggly, squirming girls to and from assemblies. Whatever she may do after she leaves St. Catherine's, her co-operative spirit and her helpfulness will always win for her many friends.

LINKEY BOOTH: In our last year, when we least expected it, a strange new creature descended on our senior class—an "army brat." This particular brat had a way of laughing all the time, getting mail every day, getting "snowed," and winning friends. In only one year, Linkey has managed to figure out all the strange things about St. Catherine's, and more amazing, has managed to fit in. Her stay here, although short, has been full, and she leaves a conspicuous vacancy as she goes, still trying to get into West Point.

SUSANNE BOWLES: "Bowlesie" is one of those people who have the quality of being able to get along with everyone. Both her warm friendliness and her constant effort to make us smile account for her popularity in the entire senior class. Suzanne also seems constantly lost in deep "snow" storms. She is generous with her time and talents, and capable of carrying responsibility. This amiable girl deserves the popularity and trust she has received.

GENE BUSH BRUMFIELD: Since "Sunshine" has the good fortune to go with a boy who attends the U. of Va. and lives in Richmond, she can always count on an exciting weekend. When not occupied with her multitudinous phone calls, she can be found "shushing" noisy chapel goers and trying to get girls to cheer at games with equal success. It is really a tribute to Gene's popularity, sense of proportion, and sense of humor that she managed to put across the various lectures she had to give us in her capacity of co-head of the chapel committee.

FRANCIE CABELL: That Francie looks rather like an angel is an accepted fact. Well, don't be fooled by blue eyes and blond hair; Francie will never be anything as dull and insipid as an angel. "Crab's" main ambition in life is to be abnormally normal, but she's much too smart. She would like to be hard, but no matter how hard she tries, she always ends up being nice. She yearns to be sophisticated, but she has an unfortunate tendency to believe anything you tell her. No one is quite sure why the frustrated result of all that is so appealing, but it is. Everyone loves Francie, and will certainly miss her next year.

SUSAN CARLAN: Susan, with that weird giggle, is not the quiet, shy little girl she seems to be. Don't be fooled. There are few who are more ready to create devilment, do new things, or stir up new excitement. She just doesn't brag about her success. Because she is one of those absolutely necessary, unsung heroes who are willing to do the humdrum jobs, Susan rarely receives the credit she deserves. However, she makes her presence felt in her quiet way, and everyone is very certain to realize, sadly, that she isn't around next year.

CLAY CLEMENT: The sweet Southern girl has come home from the big cold North and are we glad! Clay has been away from Richmond and St. Catherine's for six years, but at least we have her back, as a senior. All envy her fine scholastic ability and admire her unfailing poise. One of Clay's interesting idiosyncrasies is her love for the color blue. (It couldn't have anything to do with Annapolis, could it?) A few more are her readiness to smile, laugh, and listen. Somehow it won't seem the same without these idiosyncrasies and Clay wandering around.

JUDY COX: "Smocksie" keeps her old eagle eyes open for communicators and loiterers since she's just about the most notorious student government hound. In fact, certain frustrated individuals have considered paying her way to Washington and the F.B.I. (where she belongs, they mutter) to clear their paths for uninterrupted devilment. Although she has shown considerable interest in Annapolis, Judy is at heart an army brat. And this hardworking girl possesses all the qualities that "brats" usually do: a good personality, a talent for winning friends, and loyalty—especially for the good old Army.

GENE DAVIDSON: Although this highly capable, awe-inspiring girl works very hard, she could never be called a grind or bookworm. She has cultivated the social side of life too successfully for such a name. As a matter of fact, from the number of "contacts" she knows, one might think she had lived in the middle of Grand Central Station all her life, rather than in quiet little Bedford. Although she came here as a junior, which usually makes life difficult for a while, Gene has had no trouble. From the first week she has been noted for her strong alto (what will the choir do without her?), her talent for making phenomenal grades, and her friendliness. We will certainly miss her next year.

PATSY DAVIS: The classroom is silent. In frustrated despair the teacher looks about at the sea of blank faces. Finally she says hopelessly, "Doesn't anyone know? All right, Patsy." Out of the chaotic noise of impossible schemes and the loud confusion of diverse ideas that is a QUAIR meeting speaks for calm voice of reason. Guess who? There isn't enough to say for Patsy. Smart, full of fun, understanding, capable, thoughtful—you could go on and on. Perhaps it's best not to try, except to say that she's one of the most popular and most respected girls in our class. And although she doesn't need it, we wish her all the luck in the world.

HARRIET DICK: Harriet is bound to end up as the world's most famous ballet dancer. Such grace! Every day she comes to school with a new and different hair style. She's a saintly type, but people are shocked to find out some of the wild things she does. She'd be a good seamstress, as she makes a lot of her clothes, or she could even be a good diplomat, since she talks with ease to all the ministers or other guests who come to school. For all of these qualities, but especially for her unflinching integrity and unfailing friendliness, we will all miss Harriet next year.

MARTY DILLON: Marty is well-liked among her classmates for her attractive personality. She possesses truly extraordinary ability to make intelligent contributions to conversations on any subject (and she is always making contributions). Perhaps this ability coupled with her charm and sophistication accounts for her popularity with the males of Richmond society (and, less important, with the girls here at school). Marty may usually be found on the weekend at a party or college "blast."

BETSY EAGLES: Betsy, the girl with the Venus de Milo figure, is not only the envy of the school, but the most popular with a multitude of boys. Jean Eagles seems to have switched her center of attention from Duke to Carolina, but the final result is the same: "blasty" weekends. Betsy's intelligence is not limited to any one field, but varies over a range of subjects—from state governments to the sharp fraternities. Even if she didn't have "connections" with the opposite sex in N. C., it still would hold the most charm for her, simply because a more loyal North Carolinian never existed.

BETSY EVANS: Betsy is an absolute necessity at St. Catherine's. Her bright smile is quick to appear any time and anywhere. Her sparkling personality is the key to her great popularity among all who know her—male or female, young or old. Betsy is the proud possessor of the white blazer awarded as the highest honor the school can give to a single athlete. Yet, she has undoubtedly maintained her femininity to the extent that she is always buzzing off somewhere on the weekend. As she buzzes off this June, she leaves a vacancy that will be hard for anyone to fill.

RHETTA FAIR: Fair Rhetta, a real genius, seems always to be gone on a weekend somewhere because of her many B-cuts. But her zealous work on academic matters is rather overshadowed in many students' minds by her student government work. In one short year on the student government, Rhetta has distinguished herself as one of its most zealous and conscientious members. Although most of us "wandering loiterers" won't miss her detective services, we will all miss her warm smile, her keen sense of humor, and her friendliness for everyone, even wanderers.

MARY GARDENER FLORANCE: Mary Gardener's stature may be small, but what comes forth is anything but small. Her interesting conversation, her mental capacity, her strong southern sentiment, her ability to find those objects that she is always losing, her weakness for the male population (not under six feet) and her faith in the all-wonderful "whiskey-palions"—all pour forth in great abundance. Her good humor, and her love for disagreeing and getting into nice juicy arguments, would seem incompatible, but really they make a very whimsical and winning combination.

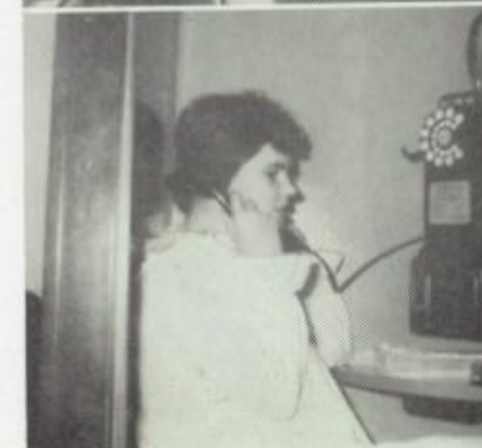

ANNE GATEWOOD: Gatewood is just one of those girls—outstanding, that is. She has held offices of responsibility for many years, and justly deserved the honor of leading the school as president of the League, which has become much closer to the student body under her enthusiastic guidance. This good-looking girl has great skill in speech-making, male-getting, sport-playing, and hall-wandering. But her greatest ability is that of friend-winning, happily supported by her second greatest ability—that of fun-having.

GRETA GIBSON: Greta is one of those genuinely good people who don't have to go around polishing their own halos. Nor does she try to impose her own thinking on us; her influence is just naturally felt. This, with her intelligent, friendly sense of humor, has won her many friends here at school. Athletic as well as smart, Greta excels in all types of sports and stars on all three squads. As she follows the northern star to college, we wish a great girl great luck.

MARTHA COLE GLENN: It may be leading the noisy classes quietly down to assemblies or it may be intercepting that hard-hit hockey ball, but whatever Martha Cole does is done well. She manages to excel in all sports, yet to remain quite the sweet St. Catherine's girl. Perhaps her love for and pride in the great "you-all" land was one of the factors that made her decide to continue her education by going south to Salem. Following the precedent she has established for herself here, she will, we feel sure, be popular with the new acquaintances she makes.

JANE GREGORY: Gregory Jane is another of those unusual creatures—a normal, human student government member. To her demanding job as president of the Boarding Council, she has brought a relaxed efficiency that has made that unwieldy department run smoothly and contentedly. Renowned for being a brain and noted for having contacts, Jane is most famous for being completely casual. She takes everything in her stride. Nothing—absolutely nothing—fazes her. Although we are all jealous of this trait, her sparkling spirit of fun has won for Jane the admiring friendship of even the most envious, and will surely continue to do so.

NANCY HAMER: Every class has certain characteristics that more or less typify it. Our class has not only its characteristics, but also its own character—Nancy. Wherever there is a group of laughing people, Nancy is in the middle. Wherever demerit study hall is being held, you know who is on the back row, writing a letter. Wherever there is a group of girls complaining about hard work and low grades, Nancy is there with the unhappiest, although she's never worked a day, and has always gotten good grades. Whenever we think of our class, we think of Nancy, for her unflagging spirit of fun and happiness has helped us endure Mondays and enjoy Saturdays.

KATE HARWOOD: To use a very old analogy (and we apologize, but it is too fitting not to use), Kate is like a light that is always before us, showing us the way we ought to be taking. Possessing industry, sincerity, friendliness, consideration, and other equally fine qualities herself, Kate inspires the rest of us to attempt to cultivate them. She was chosen as our "St. Catherine," a tribute to her almost saint-like goodness as well as to her leadership and popularity. Both the school and the students have profited from Kate's two years here. It has been a privilege to know her, and it is with sadness and regret that we say good-bye to her.

NATHALIE "DEE" HARWOOD: It really doesn't take long to discover what is under that curly red hair. It is Dee—always active, always intelligent, notorious for the scientific skill and interest which she was lucky enough to inherit from her mother. Because of her inside information, Dee is always being hounded by those grade-conscious chemistry students. Endowed by nature with acting ability and an excellent voice, Dee has used her talents well in school plays and glee club concerts. We will miss this talented student very much next year—not only for her theatrical and academic contributions to the school, but also, and especially, for her warm friendliness.

KATHERINE HASKELL: Patience, understanding, a quiet sense of humor—who is known for these qualities? Who uses them to the best of her ability? Katherine. That twinkle in her eye coupled with a mischievous grin denotes a lively temperament that has remained intact in spite of piles of books and many rules. Katherine has an independent spirit that, at times, sallies forth. It is this singular spirit of independence, mixed with a kind heart and lightly seasoned with humor, that has enabled Katherine to win so many friends and gain everyone's respect. We wish her luck at college next year.

FRENCHIE HEWITT: There is something about Charlestonians that sets them apart. Maybe it's that no one except Charlestonians can understand them. At any rate, distinctive they are, and none more so than Frenchie. Frenchie's most obvious quality is her boundless enthusiasm. Always willing to help with anything, she bounces into the job, and after a good deal of crazy foolishness and phenomenal activity, bounces out victorious and not even winded. Understanding and friendliness are just as much a part of her. Anyone with a problem finds in her a sympathetic listener and a sensible counselor. A good deal of St. Catherine's vitality and cheerfulness will go with Frenchie this June.

CHARLOTTE HOOD: Though the Hood has missed a great deal of school on account of illness, we are well aware that this easy-going girl is still among us. She is both amiable and fun-loving, and has many friends here. Though studies are far from Charlotte's first love, she handles them with a consistent effort. Often seen thundering down Grove Avenue in her Fury as the 4:10 bell rings for our dismissal, she is the only girl in the history of St. Catherine's who can be twenty miles away from school by 4:12.

KEN HOPKINS: Whether she is bouncing to classes or talking in her always animated way, "Ken, the Hopping Hen," refuses to be still. Of course this might be the result of a delightful disease called Christopher Robinitis. Ken contracted this ailment when she served as toastmistress at our banquet, much to the delight of all of us. She also seems to have a very bad case of something connected with the quiet town of Charlottesville. In spite of these illnesses, Ken looks amazingly well, and it's a good thing. What would we do without that grin?

MARY ANN JAMES: "Shorts" stands all of 4'11", but her popularity and influence are way out of proportion to her height. Her unflagging ability to find humor in depressing situations, and her talent for getting despairingly upset over nothing, her practical horse-sense and her impish whimsicality, her fluctuating between minimizing and exaggerating things—all of these, plus her loyalty and consideration for all, have made Mary Ann everyone's friend. Next year we'll miss hearing "Hall duty" read with the look and tone of an Hungarian refugee, having "Bushie" scrawled on our books, and having someone whom everyone can look down on. In short, we'll miss "Shortie."

CAROLYN JONES: In the three years that Carolyn has been here, she has made her name synonymous with almost every good quality. As president of the student council she has shown wisdom and integrity. To everyone she extends warm friendliness and interest, and a willingness to help. Although she never managed to make the glee club, Carolyn has been active in, and has usually headed, almost every other school organization for which she was eligible. Her diligence and enthusiasm have made her the joy of fellow workers. All of these things, coupled with her habit of making high grades, insure continued success for Carolyn.

KIRSTEN KEE: Kirsten is famed and envied for her ability to sing beautifully and for the awesome fact that she, unlike the rest of us inhibited, timid souls, is never afraid to sing in front of a huge audience. This straightforward recognition of her own abilities and also of her own limitations, coupled with the fact that she knows definitely what she wants to do after her stay here, has made all respect her. And her friendliness and amazing good nature have made everyone like her.

RANDY KENDIG: Somehow it's impossible to imagine Randy screaming, losing her temper, throwing something, or acting completely silly. But though she is quiet and reserved, it's not through lack of anything to say. Upon continued contact she reveals a marvellous sense of humor, quick wit, and good sense. Randy is practically never in Richmond over the weekend and has received a certain amount of notice for the fashion show she gives each Friday. She has also achieved a certain distinction for the way in which she models the clothes. For the sake of various colleges in this area we hope Randy won't go north to college. But wherever she goes, her success with both sexes is certain.

ELLEN KOLIPINSKI: Ellen is one of those "always cheerful" members of our senior class. She has a wonderful sense of humor and laughingly tolerates all the "head" that she receives as one of the fun-loving but serious and responsible members of the student government. Ellen's accomplishments in other phases of school life are little acknowledged, for she is genuinely modest and unassuming and therefore never brags. However, we all realize and admire her evident virtues, and are sure they will continue to bring her the success and popularity she deserves.

LOUISE LEAVELL: Louise is recognized as the wit of the class, and justly so, for she is never without a quick and impressive come-back. This is a knack which inspires awed admiration in squelched classmates. However, she isn't limited to squelches; no one can help laughing at her many apt, funny comments and the dead pan expression she assumes. Her intelligence, exhibited in her classes and in her common-sense reactions to all situations, is envied by all of us. Louise's abilities are numerous, and we hate to lose them. But even more do we hate to lose her sparkling personality.

LOUISE LEWIS: Louise is well-known for her originality as exhibited in last year's Junior-Senior Banquet, of which she was one of the two chairmen. She is quite generous and has offered her home and her farm for various class functions. Louise has starred in many school plays and has shown much acting talent. Since she is now taking drama lessons, her acting future is well-insured, and we shall all expect free tickets to her Broadway premiere.

READ MCBRYDE: The ready smile and good-natured expression of Read McBryde are familiar to everyone around St. Catherine's. This friendliness for everyone—a wonderful trait—was most appreciated by the students because of Read's activity in the student government. She proved that a student government girl can actually be normal and human, a fact we sometimes wonder about. It's somehow much nicer to be told—three demerits—with a smile. We are sure that Read's sweet outgoingness and her intelligence will win her friends—and admirers—wherever she goes, just as they have done here.

ELLIE MCNABB: Ellie is known as "the girl with that laugh" who wants to gain weight, and can't. Whether she gains or not is immaterial to us; we like her just as she is and will even forgive her for disrupting study hall so badly on Hallowe'en. Eternally unimpressed, unexcited, and unruffled, Ellie has naturally those qualities that the rest of us desperately seek to acquire. But admiring her is left strictly to the rest of us, as we add unassuming modesty to the list of "Ellieisms"-to-be-copied. This is hopeless, however; Ellie is Ellie, and unfortunately there will never be anyone like her. All we can do is to let her go on to further success, wishing her the best of everything.

ELIZA MASON: Eliza looks like a red-headed ray of sunshine, and her warmth is radiated in her gay smile and in her ready laugh. She is always ready and willing to take her share of responsibility, and she even seems to enjoy carrying it out. Eliza's bright smile cheers us up no end in our everyday school life, and her quick intelligence contributes a great deal to our class. She is a good athlete and studies hard. Her pleasant manner and numerous talents, which merit our praise, will certainly be missed next year.

MARY MERCER: Give Mary Rutherford any sort of job, and you can be sure she will do her very best in executing it. Although she has done a lot for the class, she receives little of the praise that she deserves. It is known that she will always accomplish any task that she is given, and will do so with a minimum of fuss and bother, and no complaints. Mary Rutherford is noted for her quiet manner and her grace. We will all miss her warm personality, which has won her a wide circle of friends.

GAY MORRIS: Although Gay is especially noted for her face, her figure, and her men, she also has the necessary characteristics to use to advantage all of these things. Even though we admit these are useful, Gay just wouldn't be Gay without her friendly smile and ready willingness to try almost anything once. School would certainly be dull without her wonderful sense of humor and her many and varied fiancés. The familiar saying "Variety is the spice of life" might well be applied to her philosophy on almost everything. We know Gay will be as popular throughout life as she has been here.

NANCY MORROW: That little Morrow girl, Nancy, is just as much fun as the proverbial barrel of monkeys. She chatters just about as incessantly, too. Since she's another one of those mountaineer Kentuckians, some people aren't quite sure what she's talking about when she says "laiyuff" or "paiyuss," but they don't have a chance to ask for a repeat, please. No one really seems to mind though. Perhaps some of her vivacity has something to do with a character named Wendell. Whatever the cause, she certainly has it, and we'll certainly miss it.

NANCY MOSS: Nancy has a good many wild and wooly tales to tell about her lengthy train rides going to and from Kentucky. And of course that fabulous weekend in Canada when she met an earl from Scotland, no less, simply cannot be described in mere words. Nancy has the unpopular job of trying to hush people who get too talkative about halfway down the arcade while going to chapel. However, we do appreciate her patience and responsibility (although we've never seemed to), and will really miss her particular style of hush next year.

MUFF NABERS: Muff's most outstanding characteristic is her individualism. This statement isn't meant as a slur, but as high praise, for it takes something that the average person doesn't have, to board at St. Catherine's for three years and remain one's self, as Muff has done, taking what good things St. Catherine's offers and yet not allowing one's self to be pressed into a life of conformity for conformity's sake. Whatever that something is, Muff possesses it in a high degree. One of the most spiritually strong girls in the school, Muff extends sympathy and understanding to everyone. It's not exactly difficult to understand why she's so well liked.

SUSIE NICHOLS: Susie is cheerful, responsible, and generous; and consequently she is a valuable asset to our class. Her work on the League should be especially noted, for she has given much time and effort to this organization. Susie's generosity extends to such a degree that this year she has shared her home with Gillian O'Connor, our English student. The entire student body feels that Gillian could not possibly have entered a more wonderful family here. It has been a pleasure for all of us to know Susie, and we wish her all the luck in the world.

GILLIAN O'CONNOR: Through the year Gillian has steadily become an integral part of our class, rather than remaining the new, slightly bewildered "adopted" classmate she was in September. As our exchange student, she has, through laughing, shrugging her shoulders, studying diligently, and quietly questioning, taught our class much about England and about ourselves. We hope that we've helped her in return, but there wasn't actually too much room for improvement. Our whimsical Gillian is, above all, Gillian, whom we never will and never can forget.

KATHERINE PARRISH: Katherine is the artist of the class and is responsible for all the original drawings in this yearbook. Her ability to express her ideas is admired by all her fellow classmates. As for her ideas, they are many and varied, almost always original and often extraordinary. Katherine is partly responsible for St. Catherine's athletic victories, too, since she is a member of several squads. But, oh, that biology course! We hope it has given K.P. the intestinal fortitude to endure successfully those airplane flights to Davidson.

ANNE PINCKNEY: Pinks was president of her class in the sixth grade, and she just can't seem to get out of the habit. Her other habits are equally as admirable—such as always putting self last, always getting good grades, and always pondering with that half-worried look, yet always smiling. Although she is teased a great deal about that "Pinckney smile," we, who are rather prejudiced, think it is really wonderful and can't think of a nicer girl for it to belong to. We feel that Smith is indeed fortunate to acquire such a fine girl.

JUDY POLLOCK: A Yankee descended upon us three years ago; instead of making war upon us, she contributed greatly to our being, with her fresh—if northern—ideas on style and speech and with that certain inbred northern sophistication. Judy's sense of proportion and good sense, seasoned with a touch of quiet humor, enable her to enjoy even the dullest situations. Now when she returns to the "home fold," we only hope that she has profited as much from her brief stay with us as we have from having her.

PATTY MOON REED: Moon is one of those important stalwarts in our class who have been at school since kindergarten. As a senior, she is found standing, unyielding, each day by the cookie table to stop greedy girls (the majority) who would try to take more than two cookies. Somewhere along the way she has acquired the amazing talent of laughing at jokes five minutes late. But who are we to judge? We probably laugh five minutes too soon. It would be hard to say how much Patty Moon has meant to our class, but it's not hard to wish her the best of everything.

KAY ROE: Please pay no attention to Kay's senior portrait: she's not given to half smiles but to wide friendly grins. She just isn't a halfway girl. She has brought enthusiasm and hard work to every task she has undertaken here, from being a table server to co-head of Special Affairs Committee. Probably Kay's most notable characteristics are her friendliness and her habit of noticing acquaintances' good points, rather than deriding their shortcomings. And certainly these will stand her in continued good stead wherever she goes.

BEPPY SCHILLING: Dimples, a big smile, very blond hair, an innocent look—all belong to Beppy. Her will to live every minute to its utmost, whether verging on the brink of illegality or in the blissful repose of "I've got permission," is a quality that we (excluding Student Government, of course) wish we could see more often. In her, great enthusiasm, quick wit, and a keen sense of humor are bound together by loyalty—loyalty to her friends and ideals. With these irrepressible and irresistible qualities, Beppy greets the world. How can she help but succeed?

JANE GRAY SEATON: Never one to be hampered by conformity, Jane Gray always stands out in a crowd. As president of her church's Senior High, she proves that St. Catherine's can turn out good Presbyterians. She never seems to have the common male problem of "who," but most of the time seems worried about "which." Her popularity, however, isn't confined to males. Her good personality and intelligence have made her well-liked by her classmates. We have no doubt as to Jane Gray's success in any undertaking.

JEANNIE SHOWALTER: She'll hate us for this, but Jeannie has a great amount of intelligence. This intelligence brings with it a questioning, as it should. She is not one to say, "Fine—Lovely" if it isn't fine or lovely. She isn't blinded by all her good qualities but seems determined to hide them. Her synical her popularity, but more important factors have been her steady her popularity, but more important factors have been her steady interest and loyalty to her friends. Wellesly is extremely lucky to obtain such a "sharp" girl.

CAMDEN SMITH: After five long years of boarding at St. Catherine's, Camden graduates, leaving behind the question—will the place ever be the same? The answer is no, for Camden takes a vitally independent and individual spirit of the type that rarely survives the classification system. Completely relaxed and ultimately casual, Camden has participated in almost all phases of school life, but has been visibly altered or impressed by few. Coupled with her casualness are a marvellous sense of humor and wit that make her wonderful company. Her enthusiastic spirit for clever devilment is appealing to all. We will certainly miss Camden next year, and we wish both her and the college of her choice the best of luck.

ALICE TAYLOR: Every class has its gay and serious characters but very few boast a girl who has both these to the fullest degree. Not only is Taylor witty and mildly sarcastic but she can even endure the "hardest table" in school. Don't let this fool you, though, for no one could ever be more sympathetic or a better friend than "our Taylor." You couldn't exactly say Alice is the most talkative girl we know, but what she says invariably makes sense. Alice has what the rest of us long to possess—a sharing friendliness which we've always counted on and will sincerely miss in the years to come.

EMILY TYLER: What has "Sherwood Forest" produced this time? No, not another Robin Hood, but Emily Tyler. This Emily Tyler doesn't thrive on robbing the rich, but—like Robin Hood—lives for other people, helping them through her infinite patience and understanding. Bursting with friendliness, this girl is always a pleasure to have around at St. Catherine's. She participates in sports especially. Her independent spirit and avid participation in all facets of school life will really be missed next year. We wish her luck.

LOU UZZLE: If one didn't know Lou, one might be tempted to think her neat, neat tales a little far-fetched. But, of course, everyone knows Lou; therefore, all is believed. By the way, don't get it wrong; these are ever so "nice" neat tales. A crowd around Lou seems natural because she is so much fun; however, the real reason for her popularity lies in the fact that Lou likes people and makes everyone near her naturally feel this. Wherever Lou chooses to continue her education (southward, of course) we wish her success.

ERWIN WASSUM: Erwin is one of the two "naughty eights" who managed to stick it out through five years of boarding at St. Catherine's. She has never lost the spirit that gleamed in her eyes when she terrorized Washington three, but she has changed its purpose. This year she put it to good use as Captain of the Gold Team and as a cheerleader. This girl has too many talents, too much originality, and too many boy friends for her own good. "Shall I take a weekend to Virginia, or W. and L., or shall I save it for something special?" We hope all of her problems will be as terrible.

LOUISE WATKINS: What makes life at St. Catherine's perk up? What makes us regain our sense of perspective? No, not council meetings, food, studying—but Louise Watkins! Devoutly leading the Odenites, steadfastly keeping to the old "wandering" trail, and still allergic to school books, Louise is like a breath of fresh air. Since she lives so precariously, the amazing fact is that she is relaxed and calm, and, most important, still interested more in others' welfare than her own. With an attempt at unselfishness, we relinquish her.

LAURA ANN WHITFIELD: As a flapper in the 20's was a success, now Laura Ann herself is even more of a success. Carrying her share of responsibility and more, she is eternally busy—tracking down Mr. Ward, frowning at Mr. Sun who won't shine on the class pictures, and delivering orations in study hall on the relative merits of each picture. Laura Ann has the ability to do a job well with a minimum of effort. Since she is smart, witty, kind, yet a strict leader, her temperament makes it a pleasure to work under her. We wish her luck.

KERR WITHROW: Not through her many stories and historical accounts do we learn to know Kerr, but through her kindness and understanding. It is not the perfect girl we seek in time of need but one who is human, one who can offer constructive advice from personal experiences, one who understands—Kerr. Not exactly the pride of student government, hardly a devoted student, but more a saucy and adored culprit, Kerr has made many friends at St. Catherine's. This is the result of her sincerity, enthusiasm, knack for having fun, and sense of narrative. Underneath a sound voicebox which tells and tolls is a kind heart, and it is to that heart we bid good-bye.

ZIM ZIMMERMANN: Besides her talent for putting things off to the last possible minute and her mad desire for a weed, Zim is famous, perhaps notorious, for one thing—her wit. There are few girls in school who can exchange cynical remarks with her and manage to come out even. Now you might think that this would make Zim unpopular. This, however, isn't the case at all; her sharp wit just can't hide her friendliness, her understanding, and her unsuppressed spirit of fun.

CLASS HISTORY

FOR most of us, Time began somewhere around 1940. By the time we were four we were very aware of the present, but those two spectres, past and future, weren't serious threats. Into St. Catherine's kindergarten we tripped—Sarah, Ora Lee, Suzanne, Clay, Patsy, Martha Cole, Randy, Louise Lewis, Eliza, Katherine P., and Taylor—to learn to make clay things. We were all dewy-eyed, except Suzanne, who wore glasses. In blissful innocence we terrorized the Lower School. In the first grade Mary Gardner, Ellen, and Jane Gray came, and in the second Louise left and Ann Ashton came. Sarah wouldn't let a "funny man" examine her eyes because she thought he could tell she'd had an operation. By the fourth grade we'd added Gate, Moon, and Greta. When Martha Cole stuck her hand through the glass in a door, we wisely figured out the connection between the accident and the wire that appeared on the doors. Randy wouldn't wear jeans on Saturday, and we thought she was a sissy. We weren't sissies. We hated rest hour, and had gangs with Butch and Monty as mascots. But in our play at Commencement almost everybody was a dainty geranium or chrysanthemum. In the fifth grade Susie Nichols and Pincks came, and Louise Lewis returned. Clay left in a blaze of glory by giving Ora Lee a nose-bleed. However, pride goeth before a fall: Sarah then gave Clay a nose-bleed. Mrs. Leake told us about the birds and bees, but suspense was lacking. Dee came in the sixth grade, and Betsy Evans came in the middle of the year. We felt important because we now had study hall instead of playground; obviously the future was still remote. Then Pincks brought some boys to school, and we had intimations of what the future could hold.

The future and the past moved in on us as we moved into the Middle School; we could look down at the Lower School "children" and hopefully up at the Upper School. For the present, we were still pretty much the same. The tomboy side locked Miss Thruston in the john. The "you're-growing-up-now, girls" side made the "Blonde Blizzards" try to get a man with a gun. (They failed.) Both sides united as we climbed out of the john windows to go to Doc White's. Betsey Beale, Charlotte, Louise Leavell, Mary Mercer, and Emily came in the eighth grade. There were also some boarders—Erwin and Camden.

Then we moved into the Upper School. More boarders came—Chasie, Francie, Harriet, Nancy Hamer, Frenchie, Kirsten, Nancy Moss, Kerr, and Penny—and we felt sorry for them because they looked so homesick. Ann Booker and Marty came too. We became terribly aware of the past as we learned about the boarders' previous experiences. The future didn't bother us much. We were definitely showing those qualities that distinguished us thereafter as a group: irresponsibility, nonchalance, talent for devilment, and unity. Frenchie wore her record of "Cherry Pie" grooveless, and Nancy Hamer cried for at least the first two months. Francie gave Miss Ambler impromptu lessons in child psychology. In the tenth grade Wendy, George, Lynn, Gene Bush, Susan Carlan, Judy Cox, Ken, Shorty, Carolyn, Gay, Muff, Jeannie, Ellie, Judy Pollack, Kay, Beppy, Lou Uzzle, Laura Ann, and Zim came. The "Clicks" murdered Mrs. Raynor, and the 21-gun salute on Ellett 3 prevented a friendly student-housemother relationship. There were several minor eruptions in lower study hall, and one out-and-out riot. Obviously, we hadn't matured much. In the junior year Gene, Rhett, Betsy Eagles, Jane, Kate, Katherine Haskell, Read, Nancy Morrow, and Louise Watkins appeared. At first they were much more mature, but gradually our perverse class spirit wore them down, and by the time Macbeth hit us there was no breach. Shades of the past loomed as we compared our faltering young banquet with last year's masterpiece, but everything turned out fine! Leavell distinguished herself by entering English class and saying, "Miss Macbeth, I left my McGing in study hall." Then suddenly the future was upon us, and we received our senior offices.

Finally we came back as seniors plus Linkey, Clay, and Gillian, and minus Penny, who had gotten married. Mrs. McCue, who had aided us women in the past, constantly encouraged us. We are ever so proud to have her in our graduating class. We hoped to forget the past and future and just live, but remarks from teachers about "last year's girls" and "next year's plans" forced us to accept three tenses. However, we were remarkably unaffected. We never will be again. Somehow, out there in the no-one-knows-what there's no room for our lazy sense of "I don't give a darnism." We'll have to admit we really do care, and then we won't be us—the Class of 1959.

Dear Helen -

To the girl who gets sunburned every time she gets out in the sun. I give a cheer. May you always be as you are and heed the advice given on this page. We all need to. Have a verrific Summer and maybe I'll see you in English 10,
Mrs. Nuckles class next year!

Love,

Went the 7 ...

Dear Hank,
Just had to say in this page - I'm organized - especially keeping study halls - it's been really great - many thanks helping you as deskmate - word we're deskmates next year - Stud. Govt. if keep that wonderful sense of humor - love ya - Alice

Dear Calvert,
It's really been great knowing you this year! This first year has been fun, but we had a few troubles too.
(like bad gradss, ect). Hope we can get together June 1st (that might!) Have loads of fun this summer!!

Dear Hank,

It's been fun this year - Sure wish you'd come see us some more even if Sally has youz.
Keep talking that nice old
"hick" talk, keep smiling, and have lots of fun this
summer.

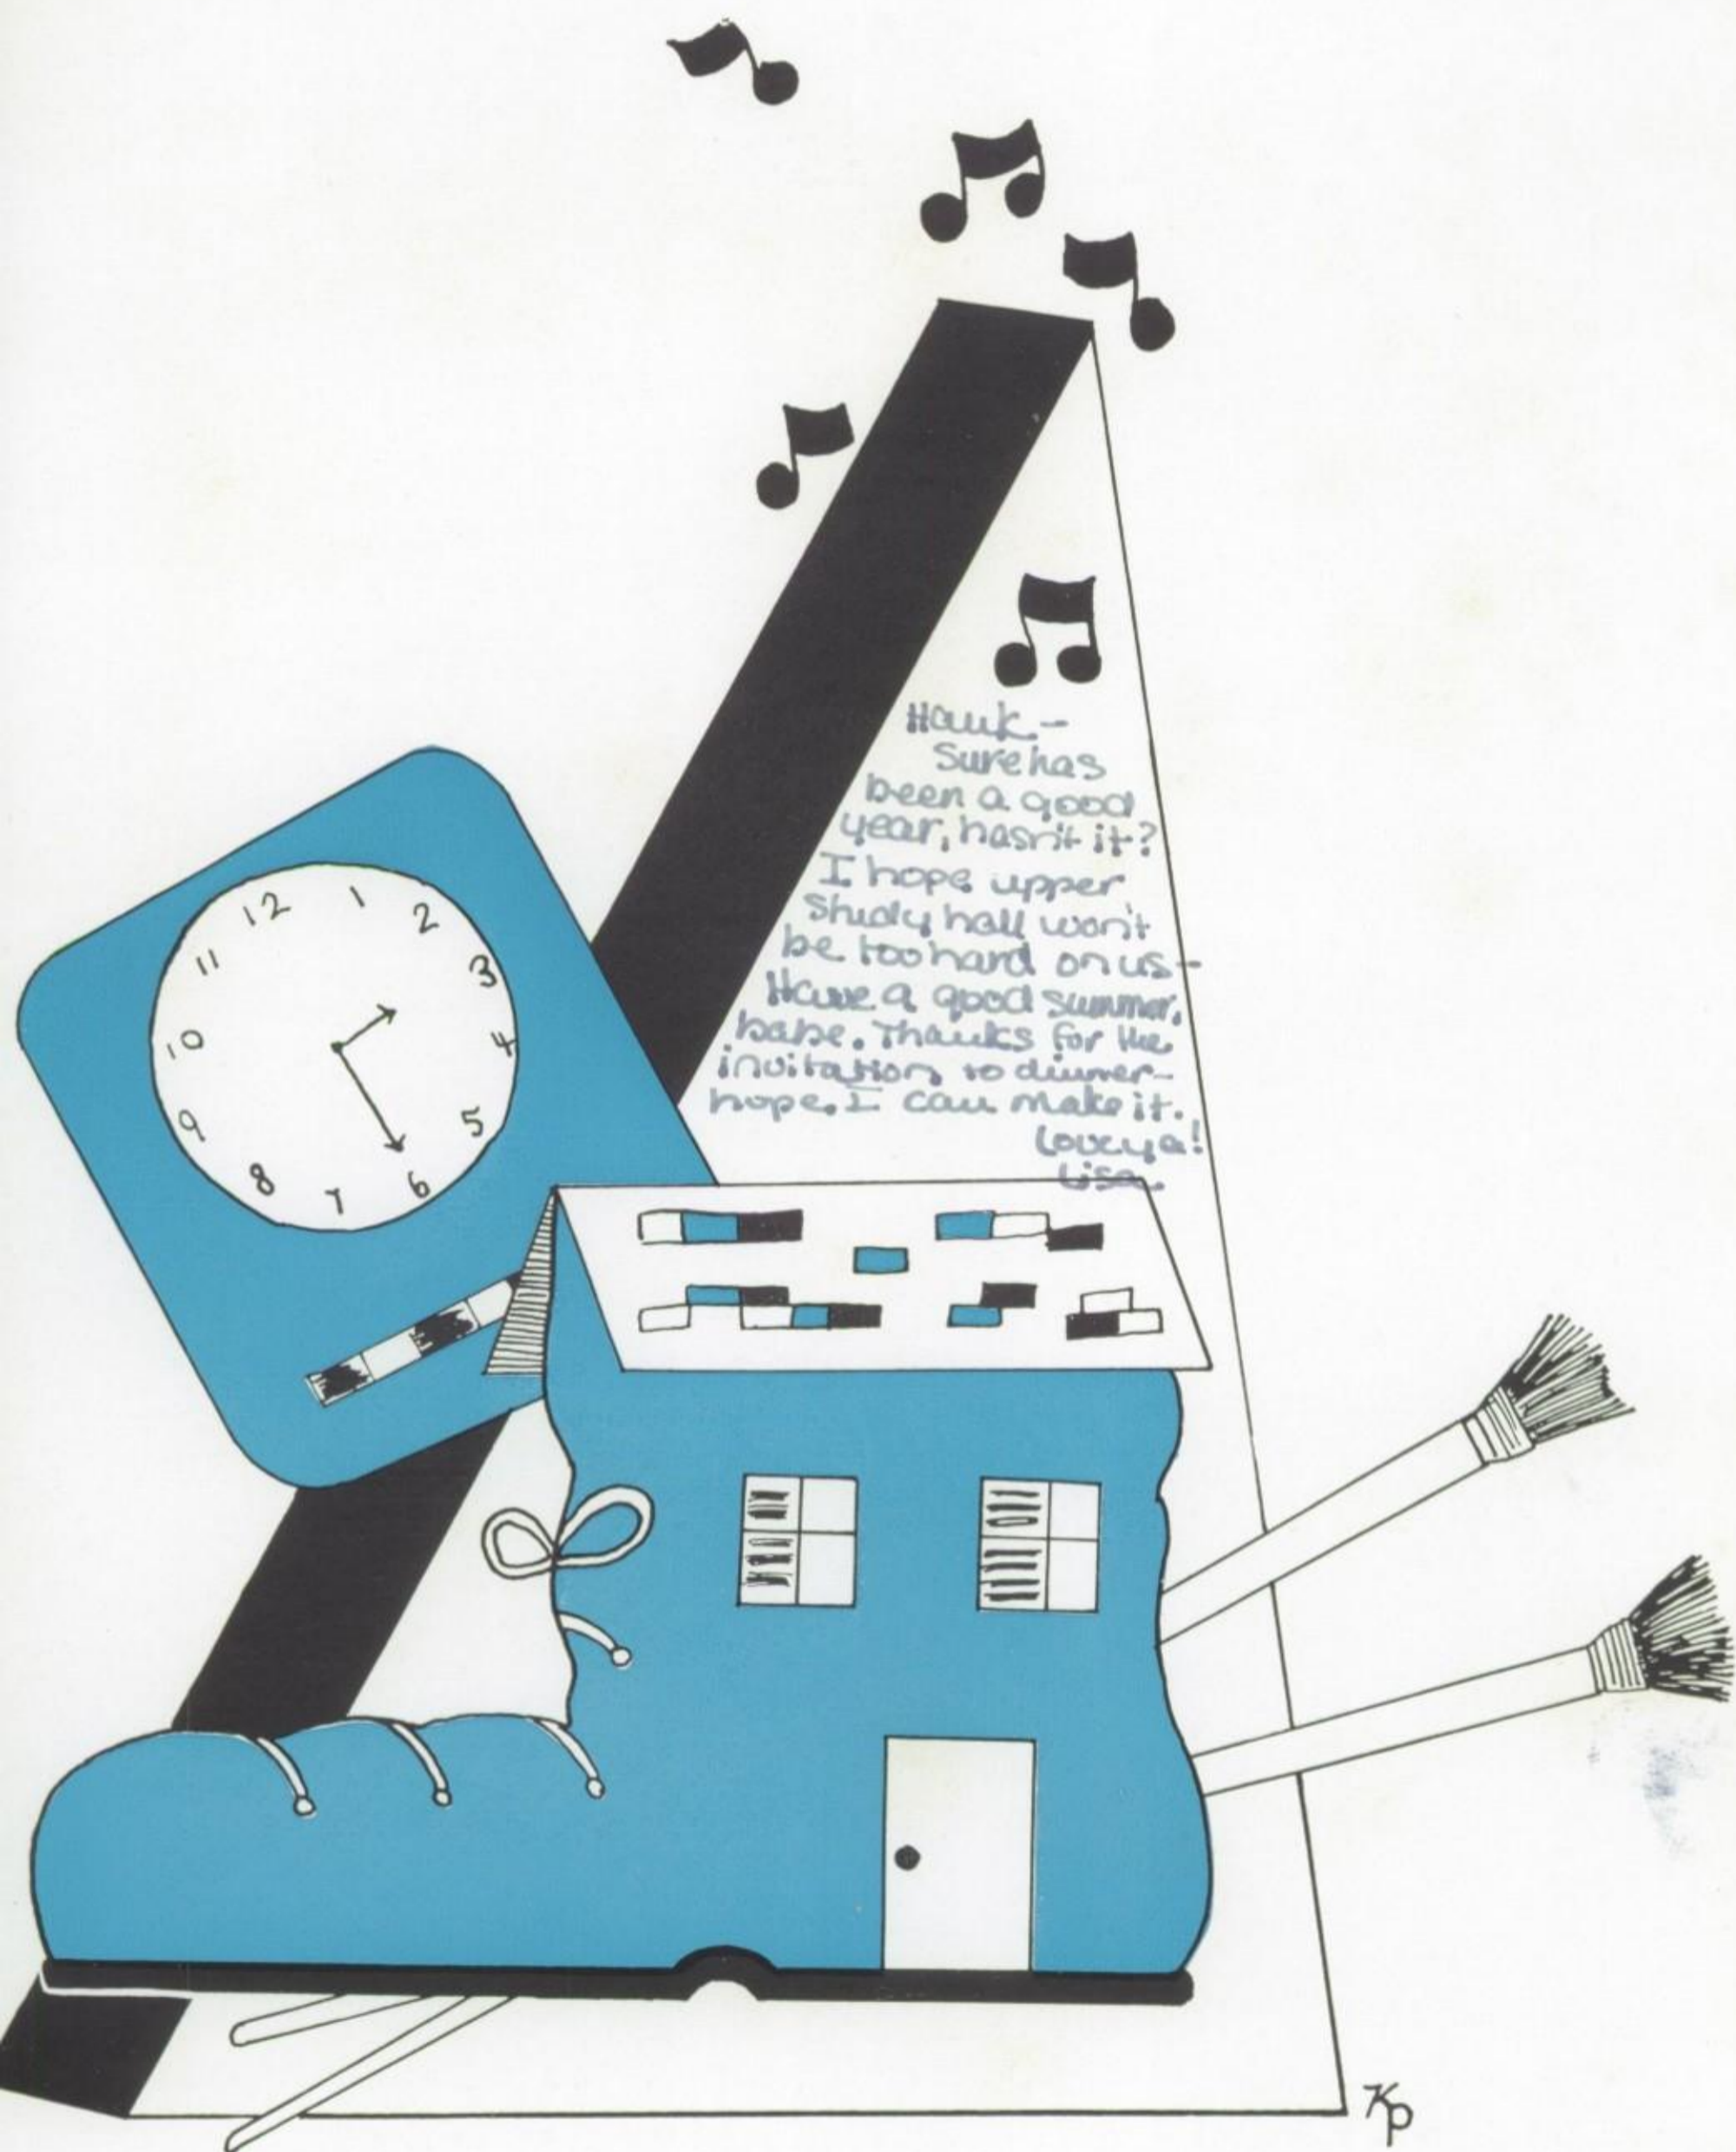

"Let us, then, be up and doing!"

See ya in Sept.

Be good and keep

Sally + Susan in line.

KOOS, Page

Hawk - Sure has been a good year, hasn't it?
I hope upper study hall won't be too hard on us -
Have a good summer, babe. Thanks for the invitation to dinner -
hope I can make it.
Love ya!
Lisa.

ST. CATHERINE'S LEAGUE

"Love, friendship, charity—all increase with time."

THE St. Catherine's League was founded in 1927 to unite the three schools in spirit and purpose. Every girl is a member, and all other organizations function under the League. Our League strives to broaden each individual's sense of responsibility, friendship, unity, and growth in order to enable each to serve others and to meet the responsibilities of life. In the League's "Bountiful Boot" the joint efforts of all members are necessary to the fulfillment of these aims.

League Executive Committee

THE League Executive Committee plans and organizes all League activities. It co-ordinates the efforts of all three schools to carry out its aims.

STUDENT COUNCIL

First Row, Left to Right: S. Anderson; C. Jones, President; J. Gregory. Second Row: S. Bramlette, M. Gibson, K. Harwood, N. Ashby. Third Row: D. Stringfellow, H. Fair, P. McBryde, H. Dick, G. Brumfield, J. Cox, E. Kolipinski, A. Funkhouser. Fourth Row: M. Boys, E. Gunther, T. Daniel, A. Dodson, E. Allen, L. MacDonald, K. Massie, E. Howard. Fifth Row: N. Seaton, J. Stone, L. Wilsey, S. Rowe.

"True honor and love are steadfast."

THE Student Council, a group of girls elected by their classmates, is the administrative part of the Student Government, of which each girl in the school is a member. The Council is not a punitive group, but a guiding one. With the aid of their adviser, Miss Castle, they help the student body to uphold the standards and regulations of St. Catherine's. This year, with the able leadership of Carolyn Jones, president, Jane Gregory, and Sarah Anderson, the Council has been very successful in keeping peace in our halls, which is no mean job.

Advisory Council

THIS Council of seven outstanding seniors, who are chosen by their class, guides the students to a fuller realization of the importance of integrity in both thought and action. Its function is to advise, not to judge, and its members give sympathetic attention and thoughtful advice to any problem brought to them.

First Row, Left to Right: H. Davis, A. Pinckney, A. Gatewood, B. Evans. Second Row: K. Roe, C. Jones. Absent: J. Gregory.

Day School Committee

First Row, Left to Right: P. Reed; S. Bowles; L. Leavell, President; A. Taylor; M. Mercer. Second Row: E. Blanton, P. Gault, S. Townsend, E. Laverge, A. Armistead.

THE Day School Committee promotes closer day student-boarder relations, serves recess refreshments during the week, and gives a dance every fall.

"Days are but organized links of time."

League Social Service

First Row, Left to Right: M. Florance, N. Morrow, W. Abbott, G. Davidson, L. Ashbrook, N. L. Moss, S. Luck. Second Row: D. Norris, A. Field, S. Fairlamb.

THE Social Service Committee, with the help of its two sponsors, Mrs. Harwood and Mrs. Almond, organizes such worth-while projects as Student Red Cross work, foreign pen pals, and the adopting of a Korean orphan.

"Give of all things, but mainly of your time."

Glee Club

First Row, Left to Right: B. Munson, A. Funkhouser, A. Gregory, C. Manning, S. Bramlette, L. Richardson, E. Mason, K. Kee, President; S. Bowles, G. Davidson, M. Florance, E. Ware. Second Row: S. Miller, S. McPherson, C. Coker, L. Carr, E. Kirby, M. Beal, A. Smith, S. Burket, S. Fox, H. Stockwell, A. De Coligny, H. Gordon, C. McCue, S. Foy, C. Gibson. Third Row: Miss Whitehead, D. Gilmore, P. Williams, E. Bulter, A. Dempster, M. Mercer, A. Taylor, V. Withrow, J. Seaton, M. Moore, J. Patterson, E. Johnson, D. Stringfellow, C. Reynolds, V. Farrar, B. Donnehoo, L. Hobson, E. Gunther, C. Seldon, N. Harwood, A. Hershey. Absent: C. Riley, J. Richardson, S. Hagerty.

Director: Granville Munson.

"Let us spend our time in song."

OUR Glee Club is a select group noted for its singing and its capacity for enjoying joint concerts with nearby boys' schools. Because of the patient direction of Mr. Munson and everyone's co-operation, this year's concerts were very successful.

Choir

First Row, Left to Right: M. Jarvis, E. Wassum, L. Whitfield, J. Pritchard. Second Row: A. Walden, J. Cox, F. Cabell, M. DeLashmutt, L. MacDonald, V. Withrow. Third Row: N. Conkle, K. Hopkins, G. Davidson, N. Morrow, L. Richardson. Fourth Row: H. Fair, P. McBryde, K. Roe, H. Allen, B. Kelly, A. Smith, S. Alexander, A. Yeaman, E. Reeves, President.

Director: Mrs. Dennen.

"Song and laughter strengthen our days."

THE Choir, a rather small, informal glee club, sings at St. Catherine's services and Lenten services at St. Stephen's, and is represented by a small group every night in chapel, where it lends considerably to the atmosphere.

Inklings

First Row, Left to Right: S. Alexander; L. MacDonald, Editor; B. Hill; A. Ashton; E. Coleman. Second Row: C. Crumpacker, V. Cabell. Third Row: C. Coxe, C. Holliday, E. Lemle, J. Elliott, A. Spenser.

"And write whatever time shall bring to pass."

Music Club

ACTIVITIES

PLAYGROUND

Adviser: Miss Nash.

DRAMATICS

Advisers: Mrs. Kahle, Miss Salley.

AT the beginning of the school year each girl in the Upper School chooses one activity in which she is most interested. One afternoon period per week is devoted entirely to this activity.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

"Spirit, sportsmanship, and fortitude."

THE Athletic Association is designed to encourage the Gold and White rivalry and to keep the competition healthy. Also the Athletic Association promotes interest in all school athletic events and encourages spectator enthusiasm and cheering. This year, incidentally, our cheerleaders, competing in Thalhimers' Teen Cheer Rally, won first place in the division for smaller schools. We tip our hats to our president, Susan Alexander, and the Athletic Association, for although the Gold and White competition has been lively, there has been no lack of unity and a needed increase of spirit.

GOLD AND WHITE TEAM CAPTAINS

"Time strengthens bonds but increases aims."

THE Gold and White Teams, into which the students in grades three through twelve are divided, are designed to promote spirit and sportsmanship. The winning of the cherished cup at the League Assembly at the end of the year, while more dramatic, is still incidental. Since whether or not the teams succeed depends largely on the captains, that group—especially Betsy Evans and Erwin Wassum, head captains—can be justly proud of the excellent jobs they have done.

White Cheerleaders

Left to Right: M. Trice, S. Gump, L. Lewis, L. Whitfield, Head; M. Uzzle, E. Blanton.

HOCKEY: FIRST TEAM

First Row, Left to Right: I. Rawlings; A. Gatewood; E. Evans; M. Gibson, Captain; K. Hopkins; E. Sprague; K. Massie. Second Row: E. Gibson; L. Bours; M. Glenn; S. Townsend; K. Roe; A. Ashton; K. Parrish; S. Anderson, Manager.

HOCKEY TEAMS' SCORES

	First Team	Second Team
St. Catherine's vs. Thomas Jefferson	2-6	0-3
St. Catherine's vs. Petersburg	5-0
St. Catherine's vs. Collegiate	1-0	4-1
St. Catherine's vs. John Marshall	1-1	5-0
St. Catherine's vs. Manchester	4-3	2-2
St. Catherine's vs. Hopewell	3-0	2-1
St. Catherine's vs. Westhampton J.V.		1-3

"And panting Time toil'd after him in vain."

HOCKEY: SECOND TEAM

THE old squad members were very much impressed by the new ones, but were envious because the new ones didn't have to run around the hockey field as much. "Why do I have to smoke?" was a frequent cry as girls saw purple spots dancing in the grass after the first few practices. And that first game was murder! Finally things looked brighter, and everyone was in fine shape for the Gold and White game. Both played so well that neither got a single goal.

Many thanks must go to Miss Fleet for her patience and never-ending explanations of how to play the good old game of hockey.

FIRST TEAM BASKETBALL

SECOND TEAM BASKETBALL

First Row, Left to Right: E. Gibson, S. Truslow, E. Nabers, K. Anderson. Second Row: E. McLain, C. Coxe, E. Fenner, K. Longest, I. Rawlings.

IMMEDIATELY after Christmas Vacation tryouts for squad were held, and the top-notch crew was chosen. After electing the managers and captains, the squad was all set for the big season. Miss West nearly drove them crazy with hard practices, but it paid off in the end. They fought like fury all season, and what a huge celebration there was after the defeat of Collegiate, the age-old rival! And they were allowed to eat out after almost every game! Of course, the Gold and White game was extremely exciting, and the outcome was not determined before a good fight was put up by both sides.

SOFTBALL SQUAD

First Row, Left to Right: K. Anderson; K. Hershey; E. Fenner; L. Hewitt, Captain; K. Parrish; L. Valentiner; A. Harrison. Second Row: M. Boys, E. Evans, E. Gibson, E. Nabers, E. Tyler, M. Davenport. Third Row: K. Longest, J. Niles, M. Glenn, B. Dickson, M. Mapp, J. Daniels, N. Black.

TENNIS SQUAD

Calvert - babe!!

Well another year almost gone! - Thank the Lord. Here we are wishing our time away when someday we'll look back at this and wish we were again in the tenth grade (seems impossible).
I don't know what's gotten into me all of a sudden I'm sentimental already like! We've had a lot of fun this year believe it or not - tracking around and getting in all sorts of hell! Be good (?) and have the best time possible this summer - I know we'll see you back here next year - I hope you do! Be good to Bill and for Pete's sake be careful!!!

loads of love and joy and all that sort of interesting stuff and junk -
"Twinko"

Features

I almost ever and go. I will be sad to left lowd study that. - Ha! Latin is a big game just as everything else but I had got to of fun being with in everything but Spanish. This summer well. have fun have time.
 and write you love + stuff.
 good.

bye

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

OF course everyone cried. Ken Hopkins was a marvelous Christopher Robin, and Miss Turner didn't seem to find being Pooh, the bear of little brain, too taxing. No one forgot her toast, and the altos managed to sing on key. All in all, the juniors' banquet for the seniors was loads of fun.

"Make me a child again, just for tonight."

di dance ya'll will have to get back
 + have a good laugh
 next yr. cause ours is open or expect!!! well, I'm will get back in shape again when we hit it
 this summer!
 Please come & see me
 this summer
 for sure.
 kid, or I'll have your hide!

Old Girl Party

The old girls' party for the new girls started the year off on a friendly note. Although Frenchie Hewitt lost ten pounds pulling the skits together, the final product was very good.

New Girl Party

Linkey Booth and Panny Gregory had an even harder time with the new girls' party because they didn't know anyone's name. However, their show was an equally big success.

"Time there laughs through the abyss of radiance."

Day School Dance

A handsome Bali Hai added greatly to the South Pacific theme at the dance given last fall by the Day School Committee.

"The happier the time, the quicker it passes."

Student Government Assembly

The Student Council members' Installation Service, which took place in the early fall, tried to show that each student is an important part of Student Government.

League Assembly

Left to Right: E. WASSUM, S. ALEXANDER, E. EVANS.

As the Republicans and Democrats are united into the United States, so the spirited A. A. Assembly showed that the White and Gold Teams are joined under the Athletic Association.

"They are the brief chronicles of the time."

Athletic Association Assembly

The theme of the League Assembly, given to show the purposes and divisions of St. Catherine's League, was "The Bountiful Boot". Out of the boot tripped varied groups most delightfully presented as Mother Goose characters.

DISCUSSION WEEK

MR. JORDAN AND ADMIRERS

EVERY year, a week is set aside for the purpose of discussing with a guest speaker the various religious questions that arise. Partly because the lectures are not compulsory, and mainly because everyone has questions, attendance is very good. This year the Reverend John Jordan, instead of telling us just his conclusions, helped us to find our own answers to the questions raised under the broad subject "Youth's Search for Christ." Since it would be impossible to compress the week's thoughts into such a small place, suffice it to say the project was enthusiastically received.

"So many hours must I contemplate."

ST. CATHERINE'S DAY

EVERY fall the entire school pays homage to St. Catherine of Alexandria in a beautiful service at McVey. Both the Middle and Upper School Glee Clubs participate, and various appropriate prayers and passages are read by the Honor Choir, a group of girls chosen by their classmates as generally outstanding. The highlight of the service is St. Catherine's message to the students. This message is delivered by a senior elected by her class as that girl who possesses a character most nearly like the saint's. This year Kate Harwood was St. Catherine, and the Standard Bearer, also a senior chosen for her high character, was Carolyn Jones.

*"To wind the mighty secrets of the past,
And turn the key of time."*

SPRING PLAY: TWELFTH NIGHT

CANDLELIGHT SERVICES

THE Candlelight Services, held at the beginning and end of each year, symbolize, through the lighting of candles—first the seniors' from the altar candles, and then the juniors' from seniors' candles—the guidance that each senior receives from God, and then passes on to a rising senior. Thus the chain is not broken, and every senior, although she goes, leaves behind, symbolically, a part of herself.

"And let today embrace the Past with remembrance and the Future with longing."

Dear Calvert,

Thanks so much for making my first year here at St. Cat's as great as it was. What would I have done without you! Didn't we have fun down in Richmond and Westhampton together buying out the stores and eating. Remember all the crazy things we've done and the wonderful things. (Our tea house) Our walks, our talks, and just everything. Wasn't it great. Wonder what rules we haven't broken? There's not many. (only joking!) When you come to Charleston you can do lam and have a wild, wild time. He will have a wonderful time. When you see Bill at Myth or elsewhere give him a big kiss for me because there were many a day when his letters offered a little light in a dark world of refugees. Aren't we nasty but haven't we had a "h" of a good time. Stay as sweet and bubbly as you are and you'll go far in this wide - wide - world. When I see you again this summer expect you to have a figure like M.M. and long blond hair. Be good! (as you always are?) till I come then we will have a gay time. Don't forget our first year at St. Cat's (Christophus) and every thing we've done and all the things to come in future years. It's been great knowing you "roomie" and have a blast this summer.

Love and Luck

Dear Helen,
Needless to say, I really think we have the best of all the balls;
but that's just natural. And so glad we got together; here we can do it again.

Have a grand
time this summer.
See you in Sept!

Much love,
